The Math Building (STEM Center) is next to the library and across the street from the Intramural Fields. A large parking lot is directly behind the Math Building next to a large parking garage. Enter the back door of the building and follow the main hallway to the front of the building where you will find Lecture Hall 101 and the STEM Research and Learning Center.